Legal Work

IS THE SUBJECT OF NEIGHBORHOOD GOSSIP

Recently a Western lawyer found in the files of an estate a letter describing how the writer had secured a homestead exemption. The following extract is a gem:

"He read a whole set of lawbooks on this thing, so I feel sure he knew how to make it out."

ISN'T there a worth-while half truth in this comment? Every lawyer knows that little legal research is required in drafting a homestead declaration. If the requirements of the statute are carefully complied with, few other points need checking.

The client doesn't know this. He supposes that the lawyer has read all the lawbooks in the law office. When the lawyer refers to lawbooks in the client's presence he raises himself in the estimation of the client.

Show your familiarity with American Jurisprudence to every client. You will be surprised how much more convincing your advice will be.

UNION LIST OF LEGISLATIVE HISTORIES

Prepared by the

SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATIVE HISTORIES OF THE LAW LIBRARIANS' SOCIETY OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

FOREWORD

Legislative histories, containing documents and debate pertaining to the passage of particular laws, are more and more frequently referred to by courts and lawyers alike to determine the legislative intent when the law in question is under discussion. In view of their growing importance, some months ago the Law Librarians' Society of the District of Columbia, a chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries, appointed a special committee to compile a union list of legislative histories to be found in its member and other libraries. It is hoped that by making their availability more widely known, the usefulness of these compilations will be increased. The present list is the result. Libraries circularized gave a splendid response, through which alone the present list was made possible. Acknowledgment should also be made of help from several librarians, both members of the Law Librarians' Society and outsiders, in checking and compiling the list. We are indeed grateful.

The list is in two parts. The first section locates the cooperating libraries, gives some idea of the type of material they prepare and describes the conditions under which they allow their legislative histories to be used. A code number is there assigned each library. The second part of the compilation is a chronological list of all legislative histories covered, adding for each the code numbers of all libraries containing that particular history.

If the compilation meets with favor, it is hoped that more libraries will list their holdings of legislative histories in later editions, and that the present group of contributors will indicate any additions they have made to their collections, thus providing for continued and extended usefulness.

PART I

DESCRIPTION OF COOPERATING LIBRARIES

Code Number

1. U. S. Department of Agriculture Library. South Building, 14th Street & Independence Ave., S. W. Telephone:—Republic 4142. Prior to 77th Congress, does not have separate compilations, but has series of chronological compilations on broad subjects, such as "Agricultural Credit" from which the history of agricultural laws can be traced through the library's files of agricultural legislation, Congressional Records and hearings. The compilations are kept up to date as new laws are enacted and some histories of old laws are also added as time permits.
2. Civilian Production Administration Law Library. Room 4627, Social Security Building, Washington 25, D. C. Telephone:—Republic 7500, Extension 2524. Legislative histories include bills, reports, debates and law. May be used as reference by visitors, but only in the Library.
3. Bureau of the Budget Library. 452 State Department Building. Telephone:—Executive 3300, Extension 13-14. This collection includes appropriation bills for all federal agencies, 1921 to date. Hearings, reports and copies of laws are in separate volumes from prints of bills and amendments. In addition, from the 77th Congress a card index arranged by subject gives citations for hearings and committee reports. Congressional bills and other relevant data are noted in the index.
4. Civil Service Commission Library. 8th & F Streets, N. W. Telephone:—Republic 5711, Extension 264. These legislative history compilations contain, in addition to the usual prints of bills, reports, debates, and laws, any other relevant material which might be regarded as having influenced legislation. For instance, it is planned to add a statement by the Comptroller General, from the Appendix of the Record, to the legislative history of the Reorganization Act. The compilations are available for very short inter-library loans as well as for study within the Library.
5. Covington, Burling, Rublee, Acheson and Shorh. Union Trust Building. Telephone:—Republic 5900. Compilations include the usual documents and debates. They may be borrowed for short periods if not in demand at the Library.

6. Federal Communications Commission Library. New Postoffice Building, Room 7500 (12th and Pennsylvania Aves., N. W.). Telephone:—Executive 3620, Extensions 263, 265. Congressional debates are included from the 77th Congress, and previously there are typed digests giving the page references for the debates. Any interested person may use these histories at the Library, but they may not be taken outside.
7. Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Library. Room 766, National Press Building (14th and F Streets, N. W.). Telephone:—Executive 8400, Extension 188.
8. Federal Trade Commission Library. Apex Building, Constitution Avenue and Sixth Street, N. W. Telephone:—National 8206, Extension 105. These legislative histories may be consulted only in the Library. No interlibrary loans are made of this material.
9. Federal Works Agency Law Library. Room 4137, Federal Works Agency, 18th and F Streets, N. W. Telephone:—Executive 4900, Extension 4203. Resources: Histories include all prints of the bill, committee reports, hearings, debates, communications of the President and other documents relating to the legislation. Beginning with the 78th Congress, 2nd Session, histories contain appendices which include related bills, reports, hearings, debates and communications of the President. Research workers and government employees may consult this material in the Library.
10. Internal Revenue Library. Room 5338, Internal Revenue Building, Constitution Avenue at 12th Street, N. W. Telephone:—District 5050, Extension 2406. Material is available by special request to all Government agencies and, in some instances, to persons outside the Government. In addition, the Bureau's Legislative Research Unit, functioning as a part of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, carries on extensive work in legislative history.
11. Interior Department Law Library. Interior Building, 19th and C Streets, N. W. Telephone:—Republic 1820, Extensions 621, 674.
12. Interstate Commerce Commission Library. Room 3392, 12th Street and Constitution Avenue. Telephone:—National 7460, Extension 361.
13. Claims Division Library, U. S. Justice Department. 3300 Corridor, 9th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. Telephone:—Republic 8200, Extension 1171. Legislative histories available to outsiders in the Library, but may be loaned only by special arrangement with the Librarian. In addition to the bound compilations listed herein, the Library has extensive legislative files, containing Congressional bills, reports and slip laws, and also a representative collection of recent Congressional hearings.
14. National Housing Agency. Office of the General Counsel, 1600 Eye Street, N. W. Telephone:—Republic 7500, Extension 71155. Legislative histories may be consulted in the office, but cannot be loaned outside.
15. National Labor Relations Board Library. 815 Connecticut Avenue. Telephone:—National 9716, Extensions 126, 127. The histories include excerpts from the Congressional Record and are kept up to date, amendments and extensions being added.

16. Tax Court of the United States Library. Room 2112, Internal Revenue Building, Constitution Avenue at 12th Street, N. W. Telephone:—National 5771, Extension 257. Material for the histories is collected as issued, and each compilation is bound immediately after the act becomes law. Excerpts from the Congressional Record are included in only a few instances. The histories may be used by outsiders in the Library upon permission from the Presiding Judge.
 17. Tennessee Valley Authority Technical Library. 101 Union Building, Knoxville, Tennessee. Telephone:—Knoxville 2-7181, Extension 547. Histories generally contain excerpts from the Congressional Record and a complete set of Congressional documents with the exception of the hearings.
 18. Treasury Department. Library of the General Counsel, Room 4119, Main Treasury Building. Telephone:—Executive 6400, Extensions 2664, 2692. Important amendments and extensions of laws are also filed, but always in separate binders. Compilations may be borrowed by other libraries for limited periods and may also be consulted by outsiders in the library. Histories have been compiled since sometime in 1934. Congressional Record debates have been included since 1938.
 19. U. S. Maritime Commission Library. Commerce Building, Room 7057. Telephone:—Executive 3340, Extension 217. Material may be used in the Maritime Library, but is not available for loan.
 20. National Selective Service System. 21st and C Streets, N. W. Telephone:—Republic 5500, Extension 138.
 21. U. S. Tariff Commission Library. 8th and E Streets, N. W. Telephone:—National 3947. Outsiders may consult these histories in the Tariff Commission Library, but the Librarian should be called in advance.
 22. War Department. Office of the Judge Advocate General. *Military Law Library. Legislative Section. Room 1-A-522, The Pentagon. Telephone:—Republic 6700, Extension 4686. This library maintains files on all acts relating to military matters, and on many acts of general interest, not strictly military. These files extend from the period of World War I to the present time. The file on each act includes the various prints of the bill, all committee reports, and in some cases, such as Military Establishment appropriations, military pay acts, reorganization of the Army, etc., includes also debates clipped from the daily Congressional Record, and a posted copy of the bill, showing where changes were made during passage. Hearings are noted on the folders containing the files, and may be found either in bound volumes or in pamphlet form. A card index of acts, by subject matter, and a separate index of hearings are of assistance in locating materials needed. The library is glad to have its legislative reference service used by personnel of other departments, but does not allow the records to circulate.
- * Became the Law Division, War Department Library, by consolidation of 10 February, 1946.
23. Library of the Supreme Court of the United States. 1 First Street, N. E. Telephone:—Executive 1640, Extension 91. Use of material is restricted to the Supreme Court Building.

SUGGESTIONS FOR READINGS FOR LAW LIBRARIANS

By EDWARD S. BADE, Librarian, University of Minnesota Law Library

May one who feels the need for it suggest that the Law Library Journal compile and publish a list of readings for law librarians. What I have in mind is not a list of bibliographies and checklists such as Friend's Anglo-American Legal Bibliographies. What is needed is a list of readings on the history of law and of legal literature. It should be material that will be read by law librarians with pleasure and profit—books and monographs about great jurists, great law books and great movements in the development of the law. There is a wealth of such material. Every law librarian knows of some of it. It is unlikely that anyone knows all of it. If all of the Journal readers pool their information, the result should be a list of readings of great value, not only to our present membership, but also to the better law librarians of tomorrow.¹

I should especially like to see uncovered some of the excellent material buried in prefaces and introductions such as are found in volumes of the Rolls Series, Selden Society publications and like materials. Many of these introductions and prefaces are first-rate monographs by top-flight scholars such as Thomas Duffus Hardy and Frederic William Maitland. So far as I know, none of these prefaces and introductions are indexed anywhere.

I subjoin a short list of suggestions by way of starting the list and by way of example. At the beginning of the list I have put Winfield, The Chief Sources of English Law. In fact, much of the material listed in the bibliographies in this work are the sort of material we should have in the suggested list. After Winfield I have made my list impartially alphabetical.

1. Winfield, Percy H. The Chief Sources of English Legal History.
2. Cowley, John D. A Bibliography of Abridgments, Digests, Dictionaries and Indexes of English Law to the Year 1800. The introduction only.
3. A General Survey of Events, Sources, Persons and Movements in Continental Legal History, by various authors. Vol. 1 of Continental Legal History series.
4. Great Jurists of the World, by various authors. Vol. 2 of Continental Legal History series.
5. Hardy, Thomas Duffus. Introductions to: Rotuli Litterarum Patentium. Vol. I, Rotuli Litterarum Clausarum.
6. Hicks, Frederick C. Men and Books Famous in the Law.
7. Hicks, Frederick C. Materials and Methods of Legal Research.
8. Holdsworth, W. S. Sources and Literature of English Law.
9. Holdsworth, W. S. Some Makers of English Law.
10. Holdsworth, W. S. Historical Introduction to the Land Law.
11. An Introductory Survey of the Sources and Literature of Scots Law, by various authors. Vol. 1 of the Stair Society publications.

¹ Editor's note: It is hoped that there will be a response to this suggestion.

BOOK REVIEWS

THE INSURANCE OF LIBRARIES. By Dorothea M. Singer. American Library Association, Chicago, 1946, viii, 92 p. $1.00

"Knowledge is of two kinds; we know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information upon it." Life of Johnson (Boswell).

For too long there has been a tendency upon the part of trustees and librarians, responsible for their treasured collections of books, manuscripts, etc., to treat lightly the possibility of loss by fire, water or other damage.

The insurance of libraries by Dorothea M. Singer adequately fills a timely and necessary study of this important part of the library administration budget.

This manual, within its covers of 92 pages, presents a comprehensive picture of all phases of insurance. Part 1 is a statement of general principles and procedure with illustrative policies and forms, all of which material is designed to assist in an intelligent evaluation of the library content. Part 2 entitled "Individual Policies" lists and describes in detail the several types of policies, thereby enabling one to properly appraise insurance needs in order to have adequate coverage for their particular library.

It is to be regretted that the author omitted listing a selected list of books on insurance, in particular, fire insurance, e. g., Hedges, J. E., Practical fire and casualty insurance, 2d ed., 1946 pub. by National Underwriters Co.; Simon, H. A. and others. Fire losses and fire risks. 1943. Univ. of California Bureau of Public Administration; Spectator fire insurance laws, taxes and fees, 1944. Also a bibliography of the articles on library insurance that appeared in various periodicals, for such references would contribute helpful aid to research students and others.

However, the manual is a valued guide for recapitalization to those already insured and an essential handbook for others who are considering obtaining insurance protection for their libraries. It provides, in easy readable style, much information upon an important subject about which, unfortunately, librarians in general hold but vague and indifferent thoughts.

Any course in library administration might well include "Singer—The Insurance of Libraries" among its required reading.

LEGAL MATERIALS AND THEIR USE IN THE PREPARATION OF A CASE. By Hobart Coffey. Ann Arbor, Michigan, The Craft Press, 1946. Pp. 50. 30c.

Materials available dealing with the use of law books have been generally found to be unsatisfactory, for one reason or another, for teaching purposes, and not of much value to the student attempting to expedite familiarization with legal bibliography. The basic requirements of a text on this subject are: (1) an analytical classification of available materials, together with a brief statement of the basic purpose of or the most practical use for each type of law book; (2) a description of the materials available in each category of the classification given, including official names and methods of citation, using standard abbreviations (this descriptive list should preferably include critical comments as to the value and usability of the various works listed. It is realized, of course, that those preparing surveys of legal materials are not always qualified to include sound or authoritative criticisms of them); (3) guides to the use of the material described, where the nature of the work renders such a guide necessary (this is not usually the case, and it is felt that these guides are necessary only in specific cases, and that in any case they should be kept as brief as possible); and (4) brief practical suggestions for the evaluation of authority, and for the preparation of oral arguments and of trial and appellate briefs.

Most books about law books fall short of the standard laid down here. They are usually subject to two glaring defects greatly interfering with their usability: First, the inclusion of a plethora of mechanical details in the suggested processes for use of the books described, and second, a reluctance to criticize any of the series or types of law books discussed, and a tendency to overemphasize their advantages. Some of these books are of value to the student, the teacher, and the lawyer in the complete reference tables they contain, but no one of them has all the reference material which might be desired, and the space devoted to such tables is often hardly enough to justify the size of the book.

The subject of this report is the best work on this subject which has come to the attention of the reviewer. It is a brief, inexpensive pamphlet, with an intelligent classification of law books and with excellent lists of the most important materials available in each category of the classification. These lists do not purport to be complete, but it is felt that that is an advantage rather than otherwise. As a matter of fact, in at least one department, the list of textbooks available on various subjects, the author errs rather in the other direction, and includes a number of texts which are of negligible value to any lawyer today.

The author of this pamphlet, a professor of law at the University of Michigan, has gone to some pains to pare non-essentials from his treatment of the subject, and has been most successful. Another excellent point in his book is his express failure to recommend, and his criticism of, some of the less valuable books. On the subject of case analysis and evaluation of authority he has reprinted a discussion by Eugene Wambaugh, written in 1894, on which it would be difficult to improve even today. Professor Coffey's discussion of the preparation of the brief and the oral argument, and of forms of citations of authorities, are admirable in their simplicity and in the concentration of information found in them.

Only one or two minor criticisms of the work may be suggested. One is that the table of the regnal years of the English monarchs lists them alphabetically, rather than chronologically—a method which will offend many with fine sensibilities on matters historical. One may note also that one or two lacunae, as in the case of the names of English and early American reporters, are filled only by reference to a more encyclopedic work in the field. This is of course not satisfactory to one planning to use this booklet as a primary study guide in legal bibliography. From the same standpoint, it is regrettable that the author discusses so many research procedures with specific reference to the library at the University of Michigan, rather than in language applicable to all, or to the typical law library. This does not appear to be a fatal defect, though, as it seems that the Library discussed has been as much affected by the stereotyping process as are those with which most users of the book will be concerned.

It is felt that this work, with its eclectic treatment of a difficult subject, is of such quality that any teacher of legal bibliography should give serious consideration to its adoption as a text material. It is suggested that many of them will find it of greater value than any work of similar scope previously published.

PRACTISING LAW INSTITUTE MANUALS ON GENERAL PRACTICE, TRIAL PRACTICE AND SIGNIFICANT DEVELOPMENTS IN THE LAW DURING THE WAR YEARS. New York, Practising Law Institute, 57 Williams Street. 1946. General Practice Series, $15.00; Trial Practice Series, $20.00; Significant Developments in the Law During the War Years, $6.00.

These series of monographs and two earlier series on Fundamentals of Federal Taxation and Current Problems in Federal Taxation, are part of a general program of education for practising lawyers. In addition to the publications, the program comprises lecture courses and correspondence courses. Veterans may enroll in these courses and have their tuition, including the cost of publications used as texts, paid by the Veterans' Administration.

The General Practice monographs, some 17 in number, explain, step by step, the techniques to be employed in handling problems which arise frequently in general practice. They cover such subjects as corporate practice, drawing wills, unfair competition, trademarks, bankruptcy and matrimonial causes. One, "Legal Research," was written by Sidney B. Hill and Carroll C. Moreland. In 42 pages they give a clear and comprehensive survey of methods and available materials of legal research, which is followed by a list of American legal abbreviations and a selected list of treatises, listed by subject. In the Trade-Marks monograph the author discusses nine major methods of trade mark protection, the practical considerations involved in making choices from among them and the procedure for each.

The Trial Practice series includes over 25 monographs which deal with all phases of trial practice in state and federal courts and also with particular types of litigation such as defamation, decedents' estates and criminal prosecutions. In "Trial of a Negligence Action," by Harry A. Gair, the author furnishes a detailed analysis of each phase of an accident case, with illustrations of problems, pitfalls, tactics and lines of questioning appropriate to each phase.

In the series on Significant Developments in the Law During the War Years are monographs written by outstanding law teachers on about 25 subjects, among others, trusts, constitutional law, administrative law, evidence, creditors' rights, insurance and domestic relations.

The General Practice and Trial Practice series have been published under the sponsorship of the Section of Legal Education of the American Bar Association, with Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School as general editor. Dean F. D. G. Ribble of the University of Virginia is the general editor of the series on Significant Developments in the Law During the War Years, and this has been prepared under the auspices of the Association of American Law Schools.

CURRENT COMMENTS

Dr. James Now With Co-ops

DR. ELDON R. JAMES who, because of his vigor, brilliance, and experience, should never really retire, was persuaded by the Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Company to accept the post of Law School Consultant a few months after his "retirement" on April 30 as Law Librarian of Congress. Since then he has visited schools in the east and middle-west. When not visiting schools he and Mrs. James are in their beautiful new home overlooking the sea on Edgemoor Road, Eastern Point, Gloucester, Massachusetts.

Mr. Roalfe Appointed at North-western

WILLIAM R. ROALFE, Law Librarian of Duke University since 1931, was appointed on September 15, to the faculty of the School of Law as Librarian of the Elbert H. Gary Library of Northwestern University in Chicago. One of the foremost law librarians in the country, Mr. Roalfe served during the war as a member of the legal staff of the Court Review Division of OPA, and later as Chief Counsel of the Cereals Feeds and Agricultural Chemical Section of the Food Price Division. A past-president and long active in the American Association of Law Libraries, Mr. Roalfe is now Chairman of the Association's Special Committee on Advisability and Practicability of Establishing the Office of Executive Secretary-Treasurer on a full-time Basis. As Chairman of the Joint Committee on Cooperation Between the Association of American Law Schools and the American Association of Law Libraries, he is preparing an article concerning the interpretations of the library requirements. Such an article has long been needed and will bring down to date the account of the Association of American Law Schools as a standardizing agency found in the article by Lyman Brownfield, entitled "The Development of Law School Library Standards as Applied by Accrediting Agencies," published in 1937 in Volume 30 Law Library Journal, 22.

Mr. Stansbury Succeeds Mr. Roalfe at Duke

PROFESSOR DALE F. STANSBURY, formerly Dean of the Law School at Wake Forest, was appointed to succeed Mr. Roalfe as Professor of Law and Law Librarian at Duke University.

Mr. Vincent E. Fiordalisi is Law Librarian at Rutgers

VINCENT FIORDALISI resigned as Assistant Librarian of the Supreme Court of the United States in August to accept the position of Law Librarian and Associate Professor of Law at Rutgers University, the State University of New Jersey in Newark. Before coming to the Supreme Court in September, 1944, Jim was law clerk to Judge Mendelbaum and Judge Clancy of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York.

Walter Dwyer Appointed to Staff of Vanderbilt University

WALTER DWYER, the brother of Francis X. Dwyer, Acting Law Librarian of Congress, was appointed in September as Law Librarian of Vanderbilt University. A graduate of the Harvard Law School, Walter Dwyer served as an intelligence officer with the Army during the war.

The robe of the late Mr. Justice McReynolds was presented by his executor to the law school of Vanderbilt. Mr. Dwyer advises us that the robe will be placed in a specially built glass case which will also contain the ten pictures of the Court taken during the years Mr. Justice McReynolds was on the Bench. The Justice was at one time a member of the law faculty at Vanderbilt University.

Arkansas and Southern Methodist Announce New Publication

The Arkansas Law Review, volume

one, number one, will be published in the spring according to their recent notice, which states that the price of the first two issues will be 75 cents each. Your order should be sent to Dean Robert A. Leflar at the University of Arkansas.

Law and Legislation, another new law school periodical in preparation at Southern Methodist University Law School, will appear in March. Subscriptions at $2.00 per year, are being handled by Mr. John R. Mara, 2709 Lucas Drive, Dallas 9, Texas.

The Intramural Law Review, now in its second volume at New York University, is described by Professor Paul D. Kaufman as follows:

"These Notes are first flights, largely uninhibited and un-edited. The writers are students, none of whom is on our Law Review staff. The word "Intramural" in our title is to be taken seriously. . . . Will you please persuade your readers to look charitably and please no citations. . . ."

To Resume Publication

The Journal of Air Law and Commerce, suspended during the war with Volume 13, no. 4, 1942, will resume publication in January, 1947.

The Washington and Lee Law Review will issue Volume 4, no. 1, in the early spring. The last issue before publication was suspended was volume 3, no. 2.

Miss Sarah Wilcox, Librarian of the School of Law of the University of South Carolina, tells us that their Selden Society Yearbook, which was suspended in 1942, will resume publication in February, 1947.

New Edition of a Uniform System of Citation in Preparation

A new edition of the popular and useful little booklet, "A Uniform System of Citation," is in press at the Harvard Law Review Association. Copies may be obtained for 35 cents through James H. Wilson, Jr., President of the Association, Gannett House, Cambridge 38, Massachusetts.

Records and Briefs Will Be Loaned by Library of Congress

The Information Bulletin of the Library of Congress (November 19-25, 1946) carries this important statement concerning the "Inter-Library Loan of Records and Briefs":

"The Inter-Library Loan of Records and Briefs. Shortly after Dr. James became Law Librarian he became interested in the problem of the circulation through inter-library loan of the records and briefs in cases before the Supreme Court and the Circuit Courts of Appeals for the benefit of the lawyers of the country. These papers bear about the same relation to court decisions that legislative committee reports, hearings and legislative debates bear to statutes. They are a primary source for the investigation of the intent of the court in particular cases and they are an invaluable source of information for judges and lawyers, law professors and students and legal historians.

"Up to the present time, there has been no provision for the circulation outside of the Library of this valuable material. Dr. James conceived the idea of forming a second set of the records and briefs in cases before the Supreme Court for this purpose. As a basis of this set, he found in the Law Library, several incomplete runs for years prior to 1944. Through the cooperation of the Office of the Clerk of the Supreme Court, he was promised in 1944, second copies of all future material whenever it was available. This material has been put in order and lawyers throughout the United States may now borrow these second copies through their local bar associations or public libraries on inter-library loan.

"In addition, Dr. James proposed to the Honorable Henry P. Chandler, Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, a plan whereby the clerks of the various Circuit Courts might reserve for circulation in inter-library loan a second set of the records and briefs in cases before their respective courts. Mr. Chandler has informed the Law Library that the clerks of all the Circuit Courts of Appeals, including the District of Columbia, have agreed to maintain, as far as possible, second sets for inter-library loan."

List of Holders of Records and Briefs of the Supreme Court of the United States in Preparation

A COMPLETE LIST of libraries on the Clerk's list to receive the records and briefs of the Supreme Court of the United States, together with the names of the libraries which are members of the Legal Microfilm Association, is being compiled by Miss Helen Newman, Associate Librarian of the Supreme Court, for publication in the February, 1947 number of the Law Library Journal. The list will contain complete data as to each library's holdings, including the term of court and volume number of Supreme Court Reports with which each set commences. Members of the Legal Microfilm Association have the records and briefs beginning with the 1938 term.

Foundation for Foreign Affairs Directed by Dr. Morrison

DR. PHOEBE MORRISON, formerly research assistant to Professor Edwin Borchard of the Yale Law School, is now director of the Foundation for Foreign Affairs, 1136—18th Street, NW, Washington 6, D. C. Two of the Foundation's publications which will be sent on request to libraries are: "Field Report for Foreign Affairs" and "Nationalization of Key Industries in Eastern Europe" by Samuel L. Sharp.

District of Columbia Law Librarians Elect Officers

ON SEPTEMBER 25, 1946, the Society held open house in the Haskell Rooms of the American University to receive informally the former speakers, the Legislative Reference Group of the Special Libraries Association, prospective new members, and to welcome members returning from the armed forces. Miss Mary Agnes Brown, a former speaker who served as Commander of all WACS in the Pacific Area, spoke briefly and interestingly of her experiences overseas.

The annual meeting of the Society was held November 20, 1946, in the Haskell Rooms, American University. A panel discussion on the Civil Service Commission's approach to the problem of evaluating and rating professional library training and experience was arranged for this meeting. Mrs. Miriam Rubenstein, Head of the Social Service Unit of the Examining and Personnel Utilization Division, U. S. Civil Service Commission, served as Chairman. Mr. Harry Bues, Executive Secretary of the Departmental Committee for Expert Examiners, Research Division, Office of the Secretary of War, discussed the approach of a Departmental official. Five members of the Society participated in the panel. After each round of panel questions were asked and answered; one question was presented from the floor. The discussion comprised more than an hour's time. A brief business meeting followed the panel discussion, at which time three applications for membership were approved by the Society, and the following officers for 1947 were elected: President, Huberta Prince, Chief, Law Division, War Department Library; Vice-President, H. Charles Hallam, Jr., Assistant Librarian, Supreme Court of the U. S.; Secretary, Amy Jennings, Librarian, National Labor Relations Board; Treasurer, Lillian C. McLaurin, Librarian, Office of Judge Advocate General, U. S. Navy Department; Board of Directors, Ann Trittipio, Law Library of Congress; Adelaide Hasse, Bibliographer; Helen Newman, Associate Librarian, Supreme Court of the U. S.; Anne Jensen, Librarian, American University.

Boston Law Librarians Meet

THE LAW LIBRARIANS of Boston and vicinity have met twice this fall for luncheon, to renew acquaintances and to discuss mutual problems. The first get-together was at Fox Hall of Boston University on October 10. Mr. Robert B. Anderson, formerly Assistant Librarian at Harvard Law School, and Mr. Eldon James, former Librarian of the Harvard Law School and the Law Library of Congress, were guests. Mr. James spoke informally about the Law Library of Congress and his new work as Law School Consultant for the Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Co.

The others present at the luncheon were: Miss Eunice W. Beeson, Librarian, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the 1st Circuit; Mr. Dennis A. Dooley, Librarian, Massachusetts State Library; Miss Barbara Dunsford, Librarian, Lowell Branch of the Middlesex Law Library Association; Mrs. Pearl J. Larson, Librarian, Middlesex

Law Library Association; Mr. Harrison MacDonald, Librarian, Boston University Law School; Miss Mary Esther Newsome, Librarian, Suffolk University Law Library; Mr. Philip Putnam, Reference Librarian, Harvard Law School; Mr. Edward H. Redstone, Supervisor, Reference Division of the Boston Public Library (formerly associated with the State Library and the Social Law Library); Mr. Frederick W. Schenk, Librarian, Northeastern University Law School; Mr. Howard Stebins, Librarian, Social Law Library; Mr. James H. Tibbetts, Boston University Law School; Miss Ethel M. Turner, Massachusetts State Library; Miss Julianne M. A. Wacha, Law Librarian, Liberty Mutual Insurance Co.; Miss Jessie I. Wharton, Executive Editor, Index to Legal Periodicals, and Mr. Charles Woodward of Little, Brown and Co.

The second luncheon was held December 5 at Colonial Kitchen on the Hill, compliments of Mr. Howard Manningham of the Boston Law Book Co. Fourteen were present. There was discussion of formal organization and affiliation with the A. A. L. L. It was suggested that the next meeting be held in the evening so that the librarians outside of Boston might be able to attend.

Law librarians of New England who are interested in the group are urged to get in touch with Miss Beeson at the U. S. C. A. A. Library, 1208 U. S. Postoffice and Courthouse, Boston 9, Mass., so that their names will be included in the list of those to whom notices of meetings are sent.

LIZZIE SANDERS JOHNSTON
1841-1946

The beloved and venerable mother of Billy Johnston, Librarian of the Chicago Law Institute, passed on peacefully at the age of 105 years in her home, 617 Franklin Avenue, River Forest, Illinois, on Monday, December 16, 1946. Mrs. Johnston, one of the oldest residents of Cook County, was a school teacher in the City before the Chicago fire, 1871. She was the widow of William M. Johnston, a pioneer Chicago attorney.

All of Billy Johnston's many friends in the Association extend to him and other members of his family their deepest sympathy.
